CrossCheck Media and CenterClip Announce Launch of “The Weekly MoneyClip” Podcast

WASHINGTON, DC – FEBRUARY 8, 2024 – CrossCheck Media, a leading media production company, is thrilled to announce its latest collaboration with CenterClip, bringing forth a groundbreaking business podcast, “The Weekly MoneyClip, powered by CenterClip.” This marks CenterClip’s debut in the business podcasting arena, promising a fresh and insightful perspective on financial topics.

“The Weekly MoneyClip” is set to redefine business podcasting, leveraging CenterClip’s proprietary technology solutions and network of over 50 independent contributors. Each episode will feature a countdown of top business audio segments, with authentic and original commentary from a diverse group of nationally renowned contributors. The 30-minute show aims to provide a comprehensive and diverse exploration of money-related topics, combining expert insights with individual experiences.

The podcast is slated to launch in the week of February 12th, immediately available to the CrossCheck Media audience. Listeners can tune-in to the show on the Evergreen Podcast Network as well as all popular podcast platforms, making it easily accessible to a wide audience interested in business and finance discussions.

The collaboration between CrossCheck Media and CenterClip represents a fusion of creativity, expertise, and innovation. Both entities are excited about the prospect of delivering engaging and informative content to a growing audience.

“As the CEO of CrossCheck Media, I am thrilled to announce the launch of ‘The Weekly MoneyClip’ podcast in collaboration with CenterClip,” said Todd M. Schoenberger. “This partnership represents a convergence of creativity and expertise, and we are excited to bring a fresh perspective to the business podcasting landscape.”

“The Weekly Money-Clip” encourages audience participation by welcoming questions from listeners. This interactive element adds a community-driven dimension to the show, creating a platform where audience queries are addressed by diverse voices within the CenterClip community.

“Business podcast listeners need a weekly show featuring concise segments from a variety of established contributors. The Weekly MoneyClip will bring efficiency and quality to a market ready for innovation,” said Quinn Cotter, CEO of CenterClip. “We look forward to collaborating with CrossCheck Media on this promising endeavor.”
